

SCA Urges Investors and Market Participants to Avoid Financial Advice and Recommendations Provided by Unlicensed Entities

In a statement published on its website today, the Securities and Commodities Authority (SCA) urged investors and domestic market participants to turn solely to SCA-licensed entities—whose names can be found on its official website—for financial advice, technical analyses, and investment recommendations concerning domestic financial markets and the securities listed there.

SCA also called upon investors and market participants to avoid misleading analyses and recommendations produced by unlicensed entities and circulated on web forums, social media platforms, or audio or visual media.
